Exerpts from The Geneology of the Hitchcock Family:

Both his grandfathers, Dea. John Hitchcock and Samuel Ball were in the fight with the Indians at Turner Falls, May 18, 1676, and the General Court granted "to the survivors of the flight & the descendants of the other" atownship which was called in honor of the fight Fall Town, afterwards incorporated at Bernardston. John Hitchcock received his grandfather Ball's share (See Holland's History Western Mass.) The township was about six miles square and had at that time not one inhabitant.

John Hitchcock appears to have been one of the one hundred and twenty-five persons for whom the town of Springfield laid out the east end of their town-four miles wide east and west, and twelve miles long north and south,-in three division, each person to have a lot in each division. The widest lot Pynchon's one hundred thirty rods wide and four miles long: the narrowest being eight feet. They called a rod sixteen feet.

Mention is made in his will which was signed March 14 1774 and presented to the Probate court "First Tuesday in October being seventh dau of s'd month 1777" of all his children except Miriam and Reuben. He gave his son John all his land at Wilbraham, "being my lot in ye outward commons on the east side of the Great river being about thirty rods in breath and four miles in length." His wife outlived him.

He died in 1777. She died October 14 1760 in Springfield, Hampden, Massachussetts.
